Mihov Blank Screen is a small but useful tool to test your screen. If you receive a screen which you are not able to change, this tool helps you to change the brightness, set the color to white or black, and see if there are any moire patterns or any other "small" patterns on the screen. To do this, you must select the checkbox for the color you want, and after the color has been changed, press the OK button. The Mihov Blank Screen program shows the selected color on the screen, and this enables you to see which color is best for your display. After you have selected a color, and if there is any moire pattern on the display screen, you will notice that a pattern of the same color appears. This is a method to test the consistency of a display. The Mihov Blank Screen program can also set the brightness of the monitor, and the brightness level can be changed in steps. The Mihov Blank Screen program tests and measures the quality of the screen you have. When the program is finished, the display screen will be set to the color you selected.
