Simnor Clock is a small, open source desktop utility with its roots in the very old SimTime. It changes the look of the Windows 7 clock by simply moving it to the preferred place on the desktop and sticking it there. One of the features of Simnor Clock is the possibility to display any image, whereas the default option is the current time. The calendar view can be turned off or set to show the calendar from one particular month or even year. Simnor Clock Pros: · Perfect clock for those who are not a fan of the standard Windows 7 clock. · Very simple to use – just drag and drop. · Show any picture or image as the clock face instead of the current time. · Add calendar to show date. · Work well with Windows 7, Vista and XP. · No need to set any preferences or preferences. · Mini-app just in 32-bit. · Works well in multiple languages. Simnor Clock Cons: · The clock can only be displayed as image. · There is no option to set custom time format (such as HH:MM:SS). · The date can only be displayed in the calendar and no option to change the month or year. · There is no option to play the daily tune. · The calendar can only be set to a particular month or year. Simnor Clock Downloads: AutoHide Clock is a small and easy tool to make your taskbar or desktop into a digital clock.
